

GENERAL REUNION OF REGIMENTS OF STATE

Will Be Held Wednesday at Hartford—Regimental Reunions in Addition.

There is a daily increase of interest in the plans for the general reunion of the regiments which went from Connecticut to fight the rebellion fifty years ago, to be held in the state armory in Hartford, on Wednesday. At a meeting of the executive committee in the rooms of Robert O. Tyler, post, G. A. R., Thursday afternoon, the programme for the reunion was outlined.

The regimental reunions will be held in the forenoon. The following organizations will hold annual reunions: Connecticut Cavalry association, First Light battery, Second Heavy artillery, Fifth Infantry, Sixth Infantry, First and second infantry, Twenty-seventh infantry, and the Naval Veterans association. The Second Heavy artillery will hold their reunion in the rooms of the Spanish War Veterans. The Connecticut Cavalry association will meet in the pension office. The Fifth Infantry will meet in Company E's room. The meeting places for the other regiments will be announced later. Henry K. Simmons, the secretary of the executive committee, will have a table near the entrance to the armory, where he will be located, to answer questions and to distribute badges, which are in the form of a souvenir button, white in color, with a golden rim.

General Reunion at Noon.

The general reunion will commence at 12 o'clock with President Dwight C. Kilbourn in the chair. He will turn the duties of presiding officer over to former United States Senator Morgan G. Bulkeley. Invocation will be pronounced by the Rev. Dr. Rockwell Harmon Potter, Lieut.-Gov. Dennis A. Blakeslee will speak for the state and Mayor Edward L. Smith for the city. President Kilbourn will respond to the addresses on behalf of the old soldiers.

Following these abbreviated exercises the veterans will form in line, and Col. Charles E. Thompson, a member of the citizens' advisory committee, will assume charge as marshal. The first Regimental band will lead, and the survivors of the greatest struggle the world has ever seen will march to the registry and salute the battle flag. The line will proceed to the Petersburg Express, and then down Trinity street, through Ford and out Asylum street, where to the armory, where at 2 o'clock dinner will be served in the basement under the direction of Mayor Charles E. Lamb.

Veterans in Auto Cars.

After dinner it is planned to take the veterans in auto cars for a trip about the city to interesting points. Many of the veterans will be interested in visiting the location of the camps where their regiments were stationed while awaiting orders to proceed to the front. Col. Louis R. Cheney is interested in the members of the Hartford Automobile club in this feature, and is endeavoring to secure 100 machines for the afternoon. It is hoped that many owners of cars will place them and their chauffeurs at the disposal of the veterans for the last gratification that it may be in the power of the younger generation to extend to the men who fought their battles for them a half century ago.

The Old Camp Grounds.

The two principal camping places of troops before their departure for the front in civil war days were one which is known as the Campfield at the south end of Hartford, and the north meadows well up toward the Windsor line. In addition to these, regiments were encamped on the Farmington road near what is now known as Vanderhill hill, on the Albany turnpike in the neighborhood of what was later the trotting park, and on Colt meadows. Nearly all of these sections have been so changed in the fifty years that the old "vets" will not know them. This is particularly true of the Campfield, the site of which is now marked by the handsome monument surmounted by the bronze statue of Gen. Griffin A. Stedman. When the soldiers camped there the lot extended from Maple avenue on the west to Wetherfield avenue on the east, and south as far as the eye could reach, with mighty trees in sight. Today it is thickly built upon and traversed by numerous streets and has upon it handsome and beautiful St. Augustine's church.

Money Coming In.

Major E. V. Preston, treasurer of the citizens' committee, reports the receipt of a gratifying sum of money to aid in the entertainment of the old soldiers by the people of Hartford. The sum received to date is $1,254.50.

ORGANIZING NEW FRATERNAL ORDER

Three More Applications will be Sufficient to Secure Charter for Court of Independent Order of Foresters.

A court in Norwich for the Independent Order of Foresters is the probability of a meeting held Friday night in Foresters' hall by James J. McGrath, deputy supreme chief ranger and organizer for Rhode Island and Connecticut, who addressed a gathering of about fifty men, and secured seventeen applications for the new court. A charter may be obtained when twenty applications are on hand, so that it is expected to push the organization, obtain the necessary number and have the court instituted.

R. D. Twombly, who belongs to a court in Providence, and Frederick Sloan, who is a member of Yale court, New Haven, will take up the work where Organizer McGrath left off and carry it through to completion. They had done considerable preliminary work before he came here Friday night, and it was their interest in the order that directed his efforts to this city.

Organizer McGrath spoke at length in explanation of the strong points of the order, which was organized in Newark, N. J., in 1874. It was incorporated in 1881 in Toronto, Canada, where its head office now is, and it has 269 members and $338 accumulated funds after all bills were paid. Mr. McGrath pointed out that it had the largest surplus and the largest capita, the latter amounting to $72 and two of its strong points were its plan for the protection of orphans and the protection afforded its members by its three tuberculosis sanatoriums, at Rainbow Lake, N. Y., in California and in Canada. One member of the court in Moosup has recently returned cured from the Rainbow Lake sanatorium and is now working on the Norwich trolley line. The widow of a member receives $5 per month for each of her fatherless children until they reach the age of 16.

The order has courts in this part of the state at North Grosvenordale, at Tatfield with 100 members, at Moosup with over 150, at Baltic with over 100, at Voluntown with 88, at Wauregan with about 80, and there are five courts in Willimantic. Organizer McGrath visits the North Grosvenordale court tonight, to be present at a class initiation of 53 men.

NEW LONDON COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

Annual Meeting to Be Held at Central Baptist Church Next Saturday.

Secretary Henry D. Johnson has sent out notices to the Sunday schools of the New London County Sunday School association of the annual meeting and conference of this association, to be held at the Central Baptist church, in Norwich, on Saturday, October 7, 1911, with sessions beginning at 11 a. m. and 2 p. m.

There will be reports of the past year's work and election of officers and committees for the ensuing year. Prominence will be given to the work in the intermediate and adult departments of the school and also to the men and religion forward movement. Mrs. Congdon, superintendent of elementary grade work, will have an exhibit and conference for elementary grade workers.

A question box on Sunday school problems will be opened. Bring your problems and have them answered. During the intermission, from 12.30 to 2, lunch will be served at the church, for which 25 cents will be charged. This social feature is an important part of the conference, when we may mingle and freely discuss our great work.

DIVORCE AND DAMAGE SUITS ARE BROUGHT.

Four New Ones in Superior Court for October.

Four new suits, making 23 in all so far, have been filed with the clerk of the superior court for October. The new ones are as follows: Walter D. McDonald of Stonington petitions for a divorce from Gertrude B. McDonald of Fairfield, Me. He represents that he married Gertrude D. Byron, March 31, 1904. She deserted him May 31, 1904, he claims. He wants the custody of a minor child.

Samuel G. Norman of Griswold has sued Moses A. Fish of Groton for the foreclosure of a mortgage, the note being for $750.

For $2,000 damages suit is brought by George J. Robinson of Boston against James O'Neill of New London. It is claimed that $2,000 is due the plaintiff on a promissory note for $2,500, dated March 14, 1911, signed by Richard Zerkmann. Mr. O'Neill is one of the endorsers.

Laura M. Edmonds of Groton of Amherst represents that she is aggrieved by the allowance of the account of the administrator of the estate of John V. Edmonds, late of Norwich, and appeals therefrom. She is an heir of the deceased and the administrator is William Edmonds.

FORST FIRE WARDEN WANTS EVERYONE TO HELP.

Many Losses Result from Carelessness With Matches and Butts.

In connection with the opening of the hunting season, State Forest Fire Warden S. N. Spring on Friday issued a notice to every person hunting in this state asking co-operation in preventing forest fires. The notice, after asking co-operation, continues:

"There are losses each year from fires started by the careless dropping of lighted matches, cigar or cigarette butts by persons passing through the woods. Such carelessness is punishable by fine and imprisonment, and this and other fire laws are being enforced.

"From Sept. 15 to Nov. 15 fires in or near woodland must not be kindled without permit from the local warden, nor is it lawful to kindle fires on public or private lands without permission from the owner.

"Other New England states have a law by which the governor can close the hunting season if drought prevails. If everyone hunting in the woods is careful, we need no such law in this state in order to prevent fires in our woodland.

"One ought to be more careful about throwing down lighted matches or cigar and cigarette stubs in the woods than he is in his own home. Don't knock out the 'heel' of your pipe into the dry leaves. Connecticut has plenty of bare fat rocks, and it takes but a moment to lay a cigar or cigarette butt down there and stamp out the fire in it.

"If anyone comes across a fire, let him notify the nearest fire warden, or much better, get help himself and put it out."

Unclaimed Letters.

The list of unclaimed letters at the Norwich, Conn., postoffice for the week ending September 26, 1911, follows:

Peter Baars, Edwin Baker, Albert Barnham, Francis Cottrell, William J. Crowe, Pat Danahue, Fred Danahue, Rob Donahue, Frank Hadley, Shirt Co., Miss Margarita Hilton, John V. Leo, A. M. McConnell, J. D. Mosley, T. F. Meagher, Annie Moore, Margaret Parent, Edward P. Quinn, Marian Reid, Henry Richardson, Ray E. Salisbury, Charles J. Smith, Jr., A. L. Talbot, Katie Ulrich, Joseph Fouchette.
